Just realised I never replied to this.

Should I bother?

Dear Mr. O'Connor:

In this email I raised some more questions regarding your email dated June 14, 2019, 9:08 am, from which you wrote:

"As previously circulated, all PhDs from that period were awarded under the University of London banner and would have been sent first to their Senate House Library. They clearly received their copy because otherwise it would not have been processed and appear on their catalogue – and from there to appear on the British Library catalogue. "

In fact, the so-called PhD thesis of Ing-Wen Tsai (1984) does not exist in both physical and digital form. That is the reason why this thesis has not been searchable in each of the three U of London libraries: LSE library, IALS library, and Senate House library. I already made a number of screen shots about my failed search of the PhD thesis just in case a proof is required in the future. I also searched all other PhDs (i.e. 106 other PhDs) in 1983-84, and all those are searchable and existent in their specific locations, except for 5 PhDs. For these missing 5 PhDs, every one has no searchable academic record. For your information, Partha Sen was my professor at the University of Illinois and my long-term friend. As a LSE graduate, he was awarded a PhD in economics in 1984, and his PhD thesis titled "Real balances and the exchange rate: theoretical and empirical analysis" is searchable and existent in LSE Library, as opposed to the case of Ing-Wen Tsai.

It is evidenced that the final copy of Ing-Wen Tsai's PhD thesis has never been received in 1984 by Senate House Library and IALS library. This was confirmed by Ruth Orson (Library Assistant, Research Services, LSE) and Clive Wilson (Enquiry Services Manager, LSE Library) in their emails sent to me. As such, without a final copy of a PhD thesis being received at Senate House Library, how was it possible that Ing-Wen Tsai allegedly earned a PhD in law in 1984?

It is bizarre that Ing-Wen Tsai's PhD thesis becomes searchable in the British Library catalogue using EthOS, an e-theses online service, as well as in the Google Books catalogue. This thesis is unsearchable internally in the U of London libraries (including LSE Library), but it is searchable outside of the U of London. It is bizarre, isn't?

Further, if you examine the following links to EthOS or Google Books, you will see little information about the magic PhD thesis except for the thesis title, author, and the year of 1984. There is no information about the number of pages at all and there is no workable link to the thesis one way or another.

EthOS:
<https://ethos.bl.uk/OrderDetails.do?did=1&uin=uk.bl.ethos.652034>

Google Books:
<https://books.google.com/books?id=IRwIvwEACAAJ&dq=unfair+trade+practices+and+safeguard+actions&hl=en&sa=X&ved=0ahUKEwicioTVnvviAhXLM-AKHRtMBMgQ6AEIKDAA>

Even more bizzare is that the magic thesis was published in 1984 in Ann Arbor, Michigan, the United States according to a famous thesis search engine called ProQuest, as the attached image file indicates. How could it be possible that a PhD thesis completed in 1984 in UK got published right away in the same year in the US?

Is it possible that someone made and uploaded information to the EthOS system, Google Books, and ProQuest in order to cover Ing-Wen Tsai as President of Republic of China (Taiwan)? To me, I cannot preclude this possibility.

Lastly, let me provide some more information about Ing-Wen Tsai. She studied at LSE for less than three years (about 2 years and 6 months; correct me if I am wrong). In such a short-term period, she claimed that she completed a PhD thesis in law in 1984. She then returned to Taiwan for a teaching position in 1984, and with almost no publications, she got promoted to Full Professor within 7 to 8 years. Can we question her integrity as a scholar and as a political leader? I sincerely LSE can be responsible and truthful in dealing with Ing-Wen Tsai's PhD thesis and degree issues.

I contacted you all for a public interest issue under UK FOI, and I am looking forward to your clarifications regarding the true situation of Ing-Wen Tsai's PhD thesis and degree.

Best regards,
