Thanks Fiona, I'll take that approach in future.

I agree with ignore and delete. Otherwise we keep feeding this.

Thanks Ross.

I wonder if saying 'we consider this case closed' or 'final word' etc might be provocative to the trolls.

Probably worth deleting, I don't think many serious messages would go via the website.

Thanks Danny,

I agree that we shouldn't feed the trolls. Based on this feedback is there anything that you want to add to that statement? Even just to say this is our final word on this subject?

In future should we just delete these emails?

All the best,
Ross

I suppose this is the argument against putting up the statement online.

I don't think we should engage with any of this. The online statement is what we have to say about this. We haven't got anything else to say.

Hi guys,

I guess someone put out another article about everyone's favourite alumna yesterday, because our inbox is suddenly full of complaints. What should the process be for these?

All the best
