

From: Alumni
To: O'Connor,D
Subject: RE: query regarding a PhD candidate - 1984
Date: 07 August 2019 10:29:15

Oh woops! Thanks Danny, I will send it to the right person now!

Kind regards,
Jessie

Jessica Bartholomew
Alumni & Supporter Care Coordinator | LSE Advancement
LSE Advancement
London School of Economics and Political Science
Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE
t: +44 (0)20 7955 7361
lse.ac.uk | alumni.lse.ac.uk

LSE Advancement is the division of LSE which exists to engage and serve alumni, donors, friends and strategic partners of the School.

LSE Advancement provides a common source of data on all alumni, donors, friends and strategic partners of the School. We are committed to holding your data securely and using it responsibly to improve our communications and develop our mutually beneficial relationships with you – and to advance our alumni, philanthropy and corporate partnership programmes. To find out more about the ways in which we use your data, please read our revised privacy statement. If you no longer wish to be contacted by LSE Advancement by email, or wish to alter the way your data is held and used, please send a suitably worded email to advancement.yourdata@lse.ac.uk.

From: O'Connor,D
Sent: 07 August 2019 10:01
To: Alumni
Subject: RE: query regarding a PhD candidate - 1984

Hi Jessie.

I'm not sure you meant to send that to me!

Cheers,

Danny

From: Alumni
Sent: 07 August 2019 10:01
To: O'Connor,D <D.O'Connor@lse.ac.uk>
Subject: RE: query regarding a PhD candidate - 1984

Dear [REDACTED],

Thank you for your message.

I have checked with colleagues who have confirmed that Tsai Ing-Wen was correctly awarded a PhD in Law 1984.

Kind regards,
Jessie

Jessica Bartholomew
Alumni & Supporter Care Coordinator | LSE Advancement
LSE Advancement
London School of Economics and Political Science
Houghton Street, London WC2A 2AE
t: +44 (0)20 7955 7361
lse.ac.uk | alumni.lse.ac.uk

LSE Advancement is the division of LSE which exists to engage and serve alumni, donors, friends and strategic partners of the School.

LSE Advancement provides a common source of data on all alumni, donors, friends and strategic partners of the School. We are committed to holding your data securely and using it responsibly to improve our communications and develop our mutually beneficial relationships with you – and to advance our alumni, philanthropy and corporate partnership programmes. To find out more about the ways in which we use your data, please read our revised privacy statement. If you no longer wish to be contacted by LSE Advancement by email, or wish to alter the way your data is held and used, please send a suitably worded email to advancement.yourdata@lse.ac.uk.

From: [REDACTED]

Sent: 24 July 2019 02:09

To: Gulati10,S <S.Gulati10@lse.ac.uk>

Subject: LSE Law Centenary

Dear Mr. Rishi:

I hope this email finds you well, and please pardon me for my curious inquiry. I wonder if you can kindly check whether or not Ms. Ing-Wen Tsai earned a PhD in law in 1984 from LSE. For your information, Ms. Ing-Wen Tsai is President of Republic China (Taiwan), and her so-called thesis is titled "Unfair Trade Practices and Safeguard Actions" (1984). I suppose she should be in your list of LSE Law Centenary if she truly earned a PhD in law from LSE. However, she is not on the list.

The reason that I made this inquiry is that Ms. Ing-Wen Tsai's PhD thesis had been unsearchable in your LSE thesis-search system for the past 35 years. It's actually been unavailable according to what a LSE librarian told me (both in physical and digital forms) in each of the three places: Senate House Library, Institute of Advanced Legal Studies

Library, and LSE library. Recently and suddenly, the PhD thesis was uploaded to your LSE search system on July 13, 2019. However, this 35-year old thesis is unusually placed on "restricted access." So that nobody is allowed to download, copy, or cite it without the consent of the author Ing-Wen Tsai according to a LSE library staff who I contacted. This is bizarre to me, as I am a scholar from the United States.

So, I am so curious whether Ms. Ing-Wen Tsai truly ever earned a PhD in law from LSE in 1984.

Kind regards,

